ABSTRACT

The Slovak National Bibliography consists of two separate bibliographies: (1) the contemporary national bibliography and (2) the retrospective national bibliography. The contemporary bibliography fulfills the following needs: (1) Provides registration and elaboration of Slovak books published on Slovak territory and books in Slovak published on the whole territory of Czechoslovakia. (2) Publishes the annual bibliography of Slovakian periodicals from 1966. (3) Publishes the bibliography of the most prominent articles from Slovak newspapers, magazines and books of the year. (4) Publishes Slovak musical materials and gramophone records. (5) Has begun to publish the "minute press". The retrospective bibliography has produced a collection of basic, reliable, and accurate information about the entire Slovakia cultural past, the economy, idealistic currents, the positive and negative features of the social development in Slovakia, the contribution of world literature to Slovak literature and the contribution of Slovak literature to world literature. In the last twenty years the Slovak bibliography overcame a quantitative and qualitative curve of development, corresponding with the development of science, culture, education, with the total upward swing of the Slovak society of the socialist Czechoslovakia. Recommending bibliographies, whose work rests on popular libraries and state scientific libraries, have overcome a special development. It has been concluded that less means sometimes more, that it is more difficult to make a good recommending bibliography than to make e.g. a registering one. Special,or bibliographies according to specialities is an independent branch of the contemporary Slovak bibliography. In this take part not only the state scientific libraries but above all the libraries of the Institute of the Slovak Academy of Sciences and some research institutes. The Bibliographical Institute of Matica slovenská /the outstanding Slovak national cultural institution/ registers over 170 bibliographical workplaces in Slovakia which she coordinates at the same time. The coordination of the bibliographical work in Slovakia has been delimitated into 9 scientific libraries - according to their corresponding specialization. The area of special bibliographies has its individual problems, especially with regard to social sciences which do not have completed bibliographical base. Some scientific branches issue cumulatively multiannual bibliographies, some provide just a current registration, some, on the other hand, have developed higher forms of bibliographical information, they issue e.g. report or bibliographical-informative magazines. The uneven development of special bibliography has more reasons, lying in the economic and social structure of the development of Slovakia.

The existence of a widely-developed activity of special bibliographies, qualitatively extensive, often induces the possibility and tendency to negate or substitute the existence of the Slovak national bibliography, pushes it aside and reduces some of its functions, e.g. the informative one.

Our information about the Slovak national bibliography proceeds from a complex knowledge of the Slovak bibliography, taking into consideration the fact that the national bibliography forms in it an independent complex, an independent bibliographical system.

To give a complete picture we are attaching a scheme of works already published, or concrete works that are being published of the retrospective or current national bibliography with its state by January 1, 1970.

The Slovak National Bibliography.

Th Slovak nation, organized in the state formation of the Slovak Socialist Republic, realizes its historical mission in the construction of a socialist society from which it deduces its social ideals, its economic structure which has been expressed in the basic governmental and party documents.

Out of these humanistic socialist ideas proceeds the program of the contemporary Slovak national culture, most frequently fixed and itemized in the general documents of the supreme state and national institutions.

The share and the place of the national bibliography in the national culture is stated by the state, professional, cultural and educational interests which at the same time is an expression of the educational ~~degree~~ level of the society and its needs.

Those who need the national bibliography, the contemporary and the retrospective ones for the basic orientation in the national literature /creative work/ are:

1/ creators whose knowledge proceeds from and tend toward the national problems.

2/ the social practice, of productive and non - productive character, the whole network of means of communication, educational, instructional, scientific and research institutions,

3/ the administrative organs to get acquainted with the evolutional trends and to know how to regulate them.

Following the duties and principles given to the national bibliographies by the Bibliographic Conference of UNESCO in 1950, the contemporary Slovak national bibliography is fulfilling just the following assignments:

1/ It provides the registration and elaboration of Slovak books published on the Slovak territory and books in Slovak published on the whole territory of Czechoslovakia.

2/ Since 1966 it published annually the bibliography of periodicals in Slovakia.

3/ It elaborates and publishes the bibliography of the most prominent articles from chosen Slovak newspapers, magazines and year - books.

4/ It elaborates and publishes Slovak musical materials and gramophone records.

5/ It began to elaborate and publish the so - called "minute press" /so far in manuscripts/.

Proceeding from the knowledge of the bibliographical facts and the potential needs of the Slovak Socialist Republic and proceeding from the knowledge of the importance of the Slovak national bibliography in the system of an organized national culture, national science as well as its importance and constructive and active classification into the integral informative system in Slovakia, we want to start a fundamental revision of the present state and propose its new model.

I. The contemporary national bibliography.

Our decision conditions the stressed knowledge mentioned above, i. e. that the contemporary Slovak national bibliography in its present state of development and structure does not correspond to the level of our nation and our national culture and that today, in a developed Slovak society it is getting exacting tasks.

The contemporary Slovak national bibliography has to be an active and efficient factor of the national culture, according to its potency it is to become - based on a rational distribution of work - an active component of the informative system, it has to create a reliable universal document of the period and culture of our nation, it has to form reliable and lasting indicators and source of all the human knowledge, which has found its manifestation in the written expression /augmented by any technique of duplication/ of our nation and the members of other nations, published in our language or another language, if it is referring to Slovaks and Slovakia, even in a foreign expression if the expression is determined by the culture and life of our nation. The contemporary national bibliography not only has to create the base for a bibliographical analysis of the national cultural production, but itself - by its structure and system - it has to take part in this bibliographical analysis. It has to fulfil the representative function of the national spiritual cultural production as well, i. e. it has to create the form of the representation of the most valuable what the Slovak nation has produced and with what it wants to be incorporated into the greater cultures - the world culture.

The contemporary national bibliography by its subject, goals, and methods forms an integral system, though from the viewpoint of the practical elaboration and exploitation it is divided into partial bibliographies.

By a systematic, unified and practical impressive elaboration and periodical publishing of its products, the national bibliography provides a basic fund of bibliografical information about the knowledge, preserved "printed documents" of the national culture. It is to be a base and at the same time a statistical control of the press production of the Slovak Socialist Republic.

The contemporary Slovak national bibliography identifies its subject with the subject of the concept of the national culture, delimitated to the form of press, naturally, not only classical but performed by means of the most modern technique. However, it does not exclude from its subject either unique written documents, e. g. manuscripts, unpublished works, Ph. D. theses etc. The contemporary Slovak national bibliography in the determination of its subject follows the content of the concept slovacikum, i. e. the four viewpoints which remain its permanent signs, i. e. the viewpoint of speech, territory, author and content, at the same time in practice, it does not exclude a mutual combination of these viewpoints.

Within the informative system of the Slovak Socialist Republic /and the Czechoslovak Socialist Republic/ the Slovak national bibliography is supposed:

1. to prepare prompt bibliographical information about the national literature regardless the form and contents,
2. to prepare perfect registering bibliographies either according to the present formal aspects or according to scientific specializations
3. to prepare critical analytical bibliographies by means of the active cooperation of specialized and universal scientific libraries,

4. to prepare a representative national bibliography as a critical evaluating bibliographical year - book.

The contemporary Slovak national bibliography can realize its mission only if in Slovakia there will be completed an organized network of permanent bibliographical workplaces at scientific and specialized libraries with a strictly determined specialization and duties, with a plan checked and inspected by the superior organs. This network presupposes, besides the existence of a center of the national bibliography, also bibliographical workplaces according to scientific specializations /scientific and specialized libraries/ and regional bibliographical centrs.

The realization of the tasks of the Slovak national bibliography presupposes the existence of a coordinated bibliographical activity of scientific libraries, universal and special ones, libraries of scientific institutions, and university libraries as parts of the informative system.

With regard to the duties and needs mentioned above there are four basic degrees of preparation in the contemporary national bibliography:

The first degree will include a central elaboration of all the slovacical press and periodical publishing of bibliographical units in their card form. The second degree will be represented by the edition and preparation of annual collections, published by the press on the level of general registration. The third degree will include works of critical-analytical cumulative bibliographies, organized on principles of the needs of the scientific specializations - in five-year cumulations.

The fourth degree represents the selective bibliographical representative year-book of the most valuable works of the Slovak nationals /published in a foreign language/.

The first case stresses the fact that the contemporary Slovak national bibliography should become an organic part of the integral informative system in Slovakia being built here.

The project of the contemporary national bibliography presupposes the preservation of the collective publishing, but conditioned by the publication of bibliographical cards of all kinds and forms of press, including articles from periodicals and special press.

The goal of the collective preparation and periodical publication of the contemporary national bibliography is to preserve in an universal registering form and according to the present formal articulation the entire national press production. It is to be published under a new more telling title, i.e. The Slovak National Bibliography, omitting the traditional all-state title The Bibliographical Catalogue of the Czechoslovak Socialist Republic and preserving it in the colophon as a sign of continuity /especially for foreign countries/. We propose to publish the collections of the Slovak national bibliography in these series:

Series A - books and brochures from 10 to 15 pages according to the value of the contents, both published in this country and those published abroad.

Series B - Periodicals /domestic and published abroad/.

Series C - Articles from periodicals /Slovak and foreign published in Slovakia and abroad/.

Series D - special press:

1. Graphics
2. Maps, atlases /globuses/
3. Business literature, norms, patents
4. Pieces of music and gramophone records
5. Films, librettos and scripts /radio/
6. Disertations and Ph.D. theses
7. Minute press

Series E - Slovak culture /representative works, studies of Slovak national literature, translations into a foreign lanaguage - as a year-book/.

The project of the contemporary national bibliography takes into account the permanent help of some of the scientific and specialized libraries and scientific research institutes both in the realization of the original preparation in the card form and the annual collections. The preparative and publishing responsibility, however, will remain with the Bibliographical Institute of Matica slovenská.

II. The Retrospective National Bibliography

The burgeois regimes, which had specific variants in Slovakia, in no way created conditions for the organization of the basic documentation of the national culture, in the form of bibliographical retrospective lists and breakdowns /specifications/ of the press production in Slovakia.

In the period of the construction of socialism and versatile development of science and research it was necessary and at the same time even inevitable to start organizing the preparation of the Slovak retrospective bibliography on higher principles, applying the domestic and foreign experience.

By the preparation of the Slovak retrospective bibliography we pursue one basic aim: to gather the knowledge about the life, development and problems of Slovaks and in Slovakia whatever has been published by press, things that have been incorporated into books, magazines and other means of press. By the Slovak retrospective bibliography we have produced a collection of basic, reliable, and accurate information about our entire cultural past, about the economic, ideal currents, about the positive and negative features of the social development in Slovakia, about the contribution of the world literature to our literature and about the contribution of our literature to the world literature. It is an assessment of the national culture, whose fixation in a literary form is the honor and duty of every modern and cultural nation. The need to prepare the Slovak retrospective bibliography has been dictated also by the analogical process of the Czech national bibliography as well as the efforts and results of the bibliographies of other nations, e.g. USSR, Poland, Hungary, etc.

The preparation of the Slovak retrospective bibliography is no other than one of the versatile and urgent preparative works of scientific research which has been discussed in many resolutions of the Central Committee of the Czechoslovak Co munist Party. It is with the results of the historical sciences that we are often witnesses how many scientific works are insufficiently registered materially and bibliographically, how difficult it is to produce many of the monographical and synthetical works and one of these reasons for all this is the uninformation and inaccessibility of literature, which can be removed just by modern and reliable bibliographies.

The Slovak retrospective bibliography, being prepared, follows four basic viewpoints which are, at the same time, the basic features of the concept of the Slovak national culture.

The systematic work on the tasks of the Slovak retrospective bibliography started in 1954 in Matica Slovenská and in the State Scientific Library in Košice and at the Comenius University in Bratislava. According to the statute about Matica slovenská from April 1954, Matica slovenská was put in charge to prepare the Slovak retrospective bibliography and she was working on the problem in cooperation with Comenius University in Bratislava and the State Scientific Library in Košice. In 1955 Matica slovenská has worked out a long-termed perspective plan to prepare the Slovak retrospective bibliography, the work was staggered into three five-year periods, articulated into 25 partial problems and presupposing the publication of about 50 volumes of bibliographical publications. This plan was in principle approved by the all-Slovak conference of bibliographers in Košice on January 19,and 20,1956 and the concrete partial tasks of the plan were discussed and approved by the plenum of the Bibliographical Section of the SKR. The plan was discussed informatively on September 28,1956 with the workers of the Section of Social Sciences at the Slovak Academy of Sciences. The plan prepared in 1956 contains a sufficient motivation, but owing to the insufficient experience, it did not state correctly the magnitude of the task and the real possibility of the elaboration of the problems and that was why it did not keep to the working schedule in the beginning already.

The Slovak retrospective bibliography represents the source base, the material starting point for research, study and reëevaluation of our cultural past. It forms a collection of all ~~of~~ the literature of social, natural and technical sciences. It has the character of a generally registering national bibliography, i.e. that during the process of preparaxing materials, in principle it follows the four basic viewpoints which form the concept slovacicum, the viewpoints are the viewpoint of territory, speech, author, and content. The Slovak retrospective bibliography also fulfils the function of statistics of the press production in Slovakia which requires the completeness of registration of books, magazines, newspapers, the so-called semi-periodicals, special and minute presses. It is given to scientific, special, and cultural workers.

The ideal and special level is provided by Matica slovenská which, according to the statute of Maticax slovenská published in 1968, is in charge of preparing the Slovak retrospective bibliography and she coordinates and publishes the individual lists.

The participation in the preparation of the Slovak retrospective bibliography has been indicated in the statutes, annual and perspective plans of Matica slovenská, the University Library in Bratislava, and the State Scientific Library in Košice which for this provide the financial and working means. The care of the special, methodical and organization leadership of work on concrete problems at the internal preparation of retrospective lists belongs to the corresponding institution which fully is responsible for the fulfilment of the accepted commitments. In cases of an external cooperation, this responsibility is transfered to Matica slovenská.

The plan of the Slovak retrospective bibliography is coordinated with the plans of the institutes of the Slovak Academy of Sciences and the individual tasks of the plan can be included into the state plan and research.

The structure of the individual bibliografies and the principles of the preparation of the individual tasks has to proceed from the individuality of the press material being prepared and the individual historical periods, at the same time one has to take into consideration its determination for the scientific and research needs. This requires that the bibliographical lists and specifications must rest on the level of the latest domestic and foreign theoretical achievements. The individual lists must, in principle, be provided by a well-arranged methodical introduction, a full registration of the material /with the exception of the articulation of newspapers, magazines and semi-periodicals/ in a form of a flexible system and effective identifiable data of bibliographical units, an accompanying apparatus of registers as well as study notes and surveys. By these means the Slovak retrospective bibliography will fulfil best its basic informative function, it will disclose the content and form of the bibliographical unit.

The editorial and structural unity of the individual lists is provided by Matica slovenská.

The historical boundaries during the preparation of individual problems of the Slovak retrospective bibliography should be chosen as to correspond with the boundaries used by the Slovak marxist historiography, taking into account the specification of the material being prepared as well as the practical needs of its users.

With regard to the needs of the scientific research and the specific circumstances of the economic, cultural and political development in Slovakia it will be necessary to prepare preferentially those problems of the Slovak retrospective bibliography which are related to the 20th century. After a complex elaboration of this century, the preceding centuries can be approached.

Before the beginning of each new problem of the Slovak retrospective bibliography, the bibliographical workplace which is in charge of its preparation has to hand in a detailed syllabus, structure, working and organization procedures so that Matica slovenská, the editors and the Slovak Academy of Sciences could express their opinion.

It is recommended that only one bibliographical workplace should work on one of the problems of the Slovak retrospective bibliography from the beginning till the end; at the same time it is advisable to appoint the responsible editors for the individual bibliographies at the very beginning of the preparatory work.
